SOCIOLOGY

Topic: Crime and Deviance

Areas:

- Marxist view of crime and deviance – capitalism and consumerism.
- White collar and corporate crime.
- Feminist view of crime and deviance - work of Frances Heidensohn (lack of opportunity) and Pat Carlen on social control of women.
- Interactionist viewpoint – Becker’s work on labelling and master status.

Activities:

- Draw a triangle diagram to show the links between capitalism, consumerism and crime.
- List as many examples of white collar and corporate crimes as you can – why do these often go unpunished?
- Create a mind map to show all the ways that women lack opportunities to commit crimes.
- Explain why Carlen described female crimes as ‘crimes of the powerless’.
- Draw a flow diagram to show what happens when someone is labelled as a criminal.
- 12 mark question: Discuss how far sociologists would agree that men are far more likely to engage in criminal behaviour than women.

REVISION PLAN

INFORMATION

MAKE SURE YOU READ THIS INFORMATION CAREFULLY

This revision timetable is a guide, and you should look at this to be a minimum required amount of work to be successful. You will need to use this appropriately when considering deadlines for controlled assessment and homework that you have been set. You also need to think carefully about your own strengths and weaknesses and consider whether the topics for that day will support your progress. Work is only outlined for those subjects for which there will be exams in the summer.

This timetable outlines which subjects to do on each day and the suggested work that you cover. Some work is described in this document and for some subjects they have explained where to find the revision tasks, for example on Satchel One (previously ShowMyHomeWork). You will have two subjects per day. You need to consider whether the amount of time for each subject should increase depending on your workload and how you are currently performing against your targets. During the holidays, you should increase the amounts of time you spend on each subject or do additional work for other subjects.

Remember to add in regular breaks to increase the chance of your work being committed to memory. If you need any support or have any questions – please speak to your subject teachers.

The subjects for each day of the week are as follows:

Monday: English and Block A

Tuesday: Maths and Block B

Wednesday: Science and Block C

Thursday: PRE and Block A

Friday: English and Block B

Saturday: Maths and Block C

Sunday: Science and PRE.

This revision plan will run straight after Christmas for twenty weeks. You should be doing 30min of revision per subject for the first five weeks, increasing by 10 minutes every 5 weeks until you are doing an hour per session in the last 5 weeks. Once the twenty weeks are up, you can continue to follow the timetable - increasing the amounts of time further - or prioritise your workload, being mindful of the exam timetable you will have been given by then and the exams that are coming up.

BLOCKINGS

FOR 2024-2025

To use this Revision Timetable you must know which of your options are in which blocks. You can do this by looking on your lesson timetable and each option will be labelled '11?' and then the option name. The letter next to the 11 is your block. To help you know which subjects are in which blocks, the information is below.

Year 11 Options

A	B	C
Art Design	Art Design	Business Studies
Computer Science	Art Graphics	Child Development
Design and Technology	Art Textiles	Design and Technology
Drama	Business Studies	Food Preparation and Nutrition
Geography	Film Studies	Geography
History	Food Preparation and Nutrition	German

SUBJECT SPECIFIC INFORMATION

Some subjects have slightly different arrangements for the revision information:

ART, ART TEXTILES AND ART GRAPHICS - Students of these subjects need to complete tasks set on a weekly basis through Satchel One as they form part of their overall grade for their final GCSE. As practical subjects with no written element for assessment, you will need to continue to build upon your technical skills through practice. The Department run GCSE support sessions after school to accommodate this and the students must attend these sessions until their practical coursework is completed in April.

COMBINED SCIENCE AND TRIPLE SCIENCE – The revision topics for session 1 and session 2 of the week are the same so the second session will ask you to complete/extend what you were revising earlier in the week.

DRAMA – The revision topics for session 1 and session 2 of the week are the same so the second session will ask you to complete/extend what you were revising earlier in the week.

DESIGN AND TECHNOLOGY

GCSE Pod - Watch the videos and create notes for your revision such as a Knowledge Organiser

SAM Learning – complete the exercises

AQA – print off and complete the MOCK exam using your textbook for support

ENGLISH – towards the end of this document there is the complete English Revision Programme however on each day there is a hyperlink to the revision work for that day.

FILM STUDIES AND MEDIA – all tasks will be set by your teacher on a weekly basis and explained in lessons.

GEOGRAPHY – all tasks will be set from the geography revision workbook.

HISTORY - There are four topics per week to be split these topics across the two sessions - complete Germany and the Cold War in the first session of the week and Elizabethan England and Medicine in the second session. Each week you have a set topic to revise for each unit clearly listed below. Carry out your revision by doing the following:

1. Revise the topic – either re read the notes in your workbook, look in a revision guide or watch a revision video on <https://www.gcsepod.com> or https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCoHOk2f7_kRZynX_lwiJ1IQ
2. Complete the revision quizzes for that week on Educake – the quizzes will be set for the right week by your class teacher
3. If you get less than 70% revise the topic again and retake the quiz.

LANGUAGES – Within the revision timetable there will be the key actions of vocab, reading, listening, speaking, writing translation or grammar. Please look at the subject specific information about what each of these key words indicate that you should complete as part of your revision towards the end of this document there is the complete Languages Revision Plan however on each day there is a hyperlink to a description of the revision work for that day.

GO TO CALENDAR

MATHS – All the revision tasks will appear automatically on Sparx and has been included in your compulsory task. You can use the revision timetable to see what topics will be coming up and potentially find other additional resources.

PHILOSOPHY, RELIGION AND ETHICS (PRE) - all your revision tasks and resources will be placed on Satchel One so you should check on the website for the work that that day.

FOOD PREPARATION AND NUTRITION – All tasks refer to the Student Revision Tasks in the digital booklet at <https://www.illuminate.digital/aqafood/> If you still have coursework to complete, this would supersede the revision timetable, however you should look to your food teacher to guide you on this.

SPORT STUDIES – the work set on Satchel One will prepare students for their examination in May.

SOCIOLOGY – the first session of each week gives details of the tasks to complete, and the second session is to complete the work.

REVISION RESOURCES

General:

Firstly, don't panic. The storage capacity of the brain is almost infinite. The estimated number of connections your brain can make between ideas is 1 followed by 800 zeros!!

The main problems people have remembering what they've revised are:

1. Interference – when one bit of information gets confused with another. Avoid studying similar subjects together to reduce this.
2. Lack of meaningful revision - a 'sense' of work without real work. This often happens when you are, for example, checking Instagram/email whilst you revise. You think you're revising, but really you're thinking about Instagram/email. Your brain is in social mode, not learning mode.
3. Stress/Panic – this happens often when you leave studying too late, and therefore overload your working memory.

How our brains work:

When we learn something for the first time, we use our working memory. The working memory is quite small (typically between 5-9 items). Therefore, to learn something properly, we have to shift it from our working memory to our long-term memory.

EVERYONE'S brain needs the same 3 things for this to happen:

- a. Repetition – so start early or you won't have time for this.
- b. Multi-modal activities – i.e. something which is visual (seen), auditory (heard) and kinaesthetic (physically done).
It also helps if it has an emotional element, such as humour.
- c. Effort – it won't happen unless you ACTIVELY revise.

GO TO CALENDAR

General tips for revision:

1. Start early. Do not try and cram everything the night before. Plan a revision timetable that spaces out what you have to learn and allows enough time for each subject. It is best to work backwards from the exam week itself – planning last minute recap revision the night before named exams, with another session for that subject a few days earlier and another a few days before that etc. Recap at the start of a new session to see what you remember about this subject from the previous session of revision.

2. Pay attention to how you learn, not just what you have to learn:

- Position: notice how changing position affects your concentration: sitting upright at a desk, lying on the floor, sitting on the bed?
- Food: do you study best before dinner? After eating? Whilst snacking? What kind of food helps you concentrate (regardless of when it is eaten)? Don't have sugary snacks for 'energy' – you will get a short burst of energy but then become more tired.
- Exercise: are you doing the right amount to stimulate concentration or so much you're tired?
- Time of day: do you study better at night; in the morning?
- Location: do you prefer to study in your room; at a library; in school?
- Company: do you work better alone or with a partner?

3. Doing something with the material we want to learn is 100% more effective than just reading it, because it actually forces us to check that we understand it. Some things need to be practised not just read or discussed or explained to someone e.g. maths questions, diagrams in lots of subjects, language vocabulary etc.

4. Get plenty of sleep – aim for at least seven hours

5. Revise in short bursts – generally your age plus 2 = the number of minutes you can realistically concentrate effectively. Have a stretch break at least once every 20 minutes. Do something active in your 5-10 minute break – don't just switch to Facebook whilst sitting still! Run up and down the stairs repeating what you've learned.

GO TO CALENDAR

6. Research also shows that variety is better than spending too long on one subject (even with breaks) – spend 40/45 minutes (or two short sessions) on one subject, then a break, then a different subject.

7. Don't work with the TV on. Your brain will be confused by trying to process what you are learning with the interference of input from the TV: you are overloading your working memory and dividing your capacity for paying attention. If you are listening to music (and some people do find that it helps block out other noises in the house) choose QUIET instrumental music, not lyrics, as lyrics will interfere with the words you are trying to learn. Listening to different pieces of music for different topics may help you link a particular piece of music to particular learning, making it easier to recall ('I know that, it was when I was listening to xyz').

8. If possible study different subjects differently. Maybe different rooms, using different pens, different music etc. Create a mood per subject.

9. Revise the same material in different ways, so your 'repetition' isn't just doing the same thing again. This makes sure that you have used a variety of techniques so it's more likely to stick.

10. Use both the left and right halves of your brain (broadly: the left stores 'detail' and the right stores 'big ideas'). So, mix it up:

Create a 'big picture' general overview first and learn it, then study different parts in detail

Learn the component parts individually first and then use these to create a big picture

Compound parts – learn the first part, then the second, go back to revise the first and second, then learn the third, revise first, second and third ... and so on

Something to help you revise....

Some of the subjects ask you to make notes on topics. One way of doing this is to make 'Cornell Notes'. Below is some information about what this is and a form you can use:

How to make Cornell Notes

The purpose:

- To have an interactive system for taking notes that allows for collaborative and independent studying.
- To master content material by articulating major concepts in own words and by regularly synthesizing information (higher level thinking).
- To develop the process of note making so that it becomes a genuine tool for learning not just an academic "exercise".

How to make them

The right side: The "teacher" side. It's where you record information given in a text book, a GCSE Pod, YouTube Video or your teacher. You are recording information given by someone else.

Using abbreviations, key words, phrases, bullet points, diagrams are key to writing fast and, when necessary, keeping up with the speaker.

The left side: The "student" side. This is where you analyse, summarise and synthesise the information on the right to come up with your own key words/images/anacronym to help you retain what you have learnt.

The quotation box is for the students to make direct links between the GCSEpod knowledge and the text. These quotations could then go on to flashcards.

Finally students have to summarise what they have learnt.

Students can then use these notes to create other resources – mindmaps or flashcards – or they can simply cover their notes and try to remember what they have learnt from the 'Cues' column.

STEPPING STONES

Especially useful for:

If you do the steps in the same order:

- Sequences
- Chronology

If you do the steps in a different order each time:

- Creating flexible understanding of big topics, where there are lots of links between ideas.

What to do:

Write each part of what you want to remember on a big piece of paper and put them on the floor.

Only write key words and draw diagrams too. Bright colours will help.

Jump/hop/walk between them shouting out what is on them.

- Because you're reducing the topic to key words.
- If you add pictures you're linking also to your visual memory.
- If you repeat in the same order each time you have repetition, which helps to move information from the working memory to the long-term memory.
- If you repeat in a different order each time, forcing yourself to think of new connections, you are building a huge network of mental connections in your head, which means you'll be able to retrieve the information from lots of different 'pathways'.

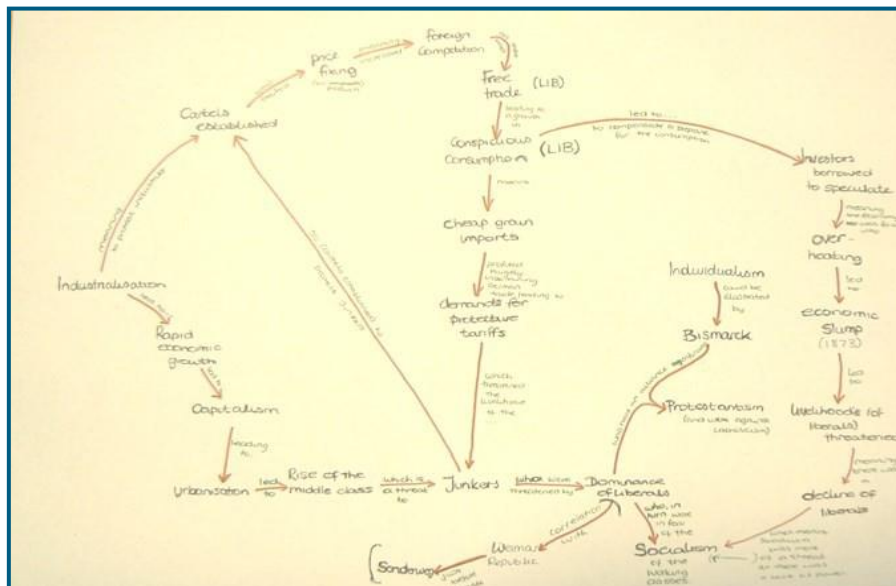

DOMINOES

Works like stepping stones in miniature.

This is like mini stepping stones. Write out the key words from a topic on strips of paper. Put your notes away and re-arrange the key words, in any way you like, so you can explain the topic ('tell the story').

You can write out the 'dominos' after you've thought them through, if you wish, as a different way of remembering it.

Why does it work ?

- For the same reasons as stepping stones.

TEACH IT

Useful for anything.

What to do:

Teach someone else what you want to learn.

- Because other people don't always understand what you mean, so they ask questions which help you to express yourself more clearly. These questions make you think about the meaning of what you've learned, so you have to understand it, rather than just remember the words you learned.

USE AVAILABLE WEB BASED PROGRAMS

E.G. Bitesize, Corbett Maths and Sparx.

- Because it practises retrieving the information you've learned so reinforces your revision.
- Because it's a different from working on paper so gives you an additional type of memory.

GAME IT

Useful for anything

Make games of your learning, such as:

- Key words snap: write as many key words from the topic as you like onto cards, one word per card. Play snap, against yourself or a partner. Every time there is a link between two of the key words, shout 'snap', explain the connection, if your partner accepts it you have won the cards. If you were revising GCSE History for example, and the words were 'communism' and 'Czechoslovakia' you might 'snap' these by saying that Britain was so afraid of communism that she excluded Russia from the meeting with Hitler about the future of Czechoslovakia in 1938.
- Index card time trial: write a term on one side and the definition/key information on the other. You have to accurately identify the information on the reverse within a set time. Play against a partner; you decide on the time limit and how many cards you have to accurately describe in that time. For example, you could have 3 cards in 30 seconds to score a point. You could also do this with questions and answers, rather than terms and definitions.
- Memory game: write each stage of a sequence on a different card. Turn them over. Turn over one at random and you have to say what comes before and what comes after. You could set yourself a time limit too and play against a partner.

The only limit is your imagination!

- Because you are actively processing the information by making the game.
- Because, by playing several times, you are repeating the revision.
- Because it is auditory and fun. If you include pictures/symbols/colours/different fonts on the game cards it will also be visual: 3 out of 4 factors which our memories like to work with.

ACROSTICS

- Sequences of ideas, or spellings:

What to do:

Make up an acrostic to remember the order of events, or the order of letters in a word:

e.g. Please Excuse My Dopey Aunt Sally [PEMDAS]

Parentheses, Exponents, Multiplication, Division, Addition, Subtraction.

This mnemonic allows us to remember the order of operations in maths.

Claire Hops About Over Spiders

This acrostic reminds me how to spell “chaos” (it works for me, because my friend Claire causes chaos when she sees a spider – choose a sentence that has meaning for you; the emotional connection will help it stick).

- Because the acrostic you choose will have emotional meaning, so it works as a peg into your emotional memory.
- Because the acrostic sentence has an overall meaning, which hold together the separate stages of a process/separate letters of a word and so make it more memorable.

DIAGRAMS

- To see patterns over time / over the plot of a novel or play/ within data.

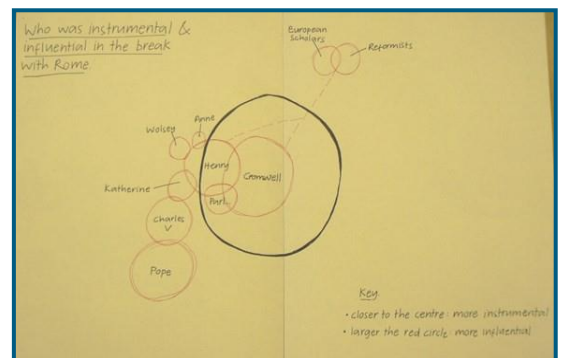

What to do:

Depending on what you're studying, create:

- Timelines
- Graphs
- Charts
- etc.

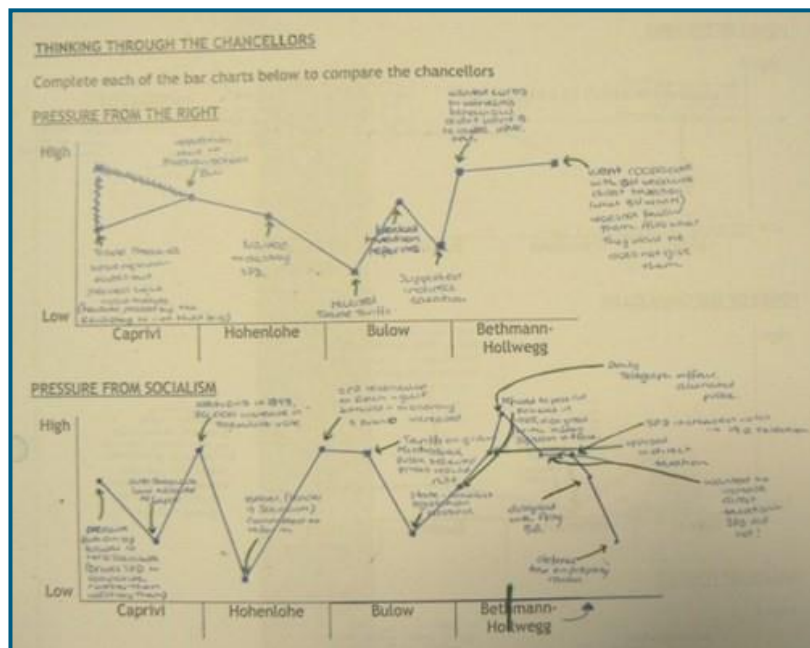

This is a circles diagram. It shows who was responsible for the break with Rome in 1533. The centre, black, circle is the concept of 'the break'. There is a red circle for each person involved.

- The size of the red circle shows how influential the individual was (i.e. how much their opinion mattered).
- The distance of the red circle from the black circle shows how instrumental the person was (i.e. how much they actually did).

This is a timeline of Henry VIII's reign. The sticky notes argue that the break with Rome was/was not planned. The fact some of the timeline is higher than other bits shows how protestant England was at any point. The blue and white sticky notes explain why we made those decisions. It shows a lot!!

These are little graphs showing trends in particular areas of politics over the four chancellors of Wilhelm II's reign.

This is a huge graph showing the fortunes of various political parties whilst Bismarck was Chancellor of Germany.

Why does it work ?

- Because it visualises your thinking, so it utilises your visual memory and is quick to review when you repeat your revision.
- Because you have had to process the information properly to create the diagram.
- Because it forces you to commit your thoughts to paper; it gives you a tangible product for what might otherwise just be vague ideas.

REDUCE YOUR NOTES

- Detailed information.

What to do:

DON'T get a highlighter and highlight big chunks! You will learn nothing by doing this; it might make you read more carefully but it won't help you remember it. DO use one of the effective reading techniques below if you don't feel you've really made sense of your notes.

Choose your key words (10-30, depending on how much is covered, is about right). Nouns are often the most useful. These will form the framework of your notes.

Add pictures, symbols, arrows and numbers to support you.

LOWER 4 - IS ABSOLUTE POWER POSSIBLE?

SALADIN

We don't know much about Saladin's early life or what he looks like. The information we do have tends to be either from people who loved or hated him, so it is difficult to trust any account completely.

Saladin's real name was Salah al-Din Yusuf. He was born in what is now Iraq in c.1138. His father was a Kurdish chief, so he had a privileged life and was well educated. Saladin was trained as a soldier by his uncle and, as he rose through the ranks, became popular with his men.

Saladin's uncle worked for Nur ad-Din, who was the sultan of Syria and Egypt. He ruled Egypt for Nur ad-Din. When his uncle died, Saladin took over his job, ruling Egypt on behalf of the Sultan. He appointed lots of his family as important officials. Then, when Nur ad-Din died in 1171, Saladin proclaimed himself Sultan of Egypt. Saladin justified his claim to the throne by claiming that he was the only person who could protect Muslims from the Christians (read a bit more to find out about the Crusades!). Fear of this outside threat united people behind Saladin.

By 1174 he had taken control of Syria as well. He was crowned in Cairo in 1174. Saladin believed in absolute rule. But he also believed that Kings should look after their subjects. He asked his chief minister, Nizam al-Mulk, to write a book about how Kings should behave. This book was available for all Saladin's subjects to read. This book said that Kings should not be selfish, greedy or proud. Instead, they should be generous, merciful and just.

He is most famous, however, for capturing Jerusalem during a war known as the Third Crusade. A Crusade is a Christian Holy War, like a Muslim Jihad. In 1099 Christian soldiers from Europe had captured Jerusalem from the Muslims. In 1187, Saladin recaptured Jerusalem for the Muslims after defeating the King of Jerusalem at the Battle of Hattin near the Lake of Galilee. When his soldiers entered the city of Jerusalem, they were not allowed to kill civilians, rob people or damage the city. Such behaviour was standard from soldiers who had won a battle, so Saladin's orders amazed and pleased the people of Jerusalem. After Saladin's victory, Christian civilians in Jerusalem had to pay Islamic tax but were not persecuted for their religion, so they did not oppose Saladin. However, any soldiers in the Christian army who did not convert to Islam were killed.

The Pope and the Kings of western European countries were horrified that Jerusalem was again in the hands of the Muslims and so started the Third Crusade to reclaim Jerusalem. The King of England at the time, Richard the Lionheart, led an army. In 1191 after some terrible battles King Richard became ill. Although Saladin was fighting King Richard over control of Jerusalem, he sent his own doctor, together with fresh water and fruit to help King Richard recover.

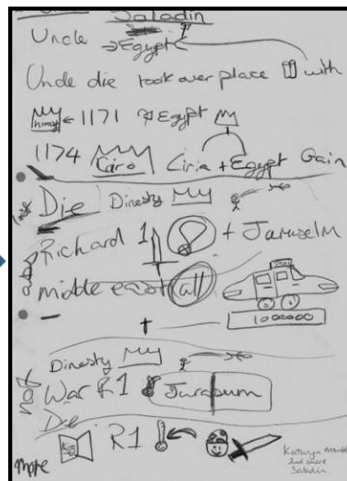

There are two reasons. First, Saladin was a strict Muslim. One of the main beliefs of Islam is that Muslims should help those in need. Secondly, Saladin could send his men into Richard's camp with the supplies and spy on what he had in terms of soldiers, equipment etc.

Saladin learned that Richard did not have enough soldiers to retake Jerusalem. Saladin agreed to a truce (an end to the fighting). He agreed that Christian pilgrims could visit Jerusalem without being attacked by Muslims. Neither Richard or Saladin particularly liked the truce, as they both really wanted total control of Jerusalem, but both sides were worn out and in October 1192, Richard left for England (he had some adventures on the way, but that's another story!).

Saladin died in 1193 and his tomb is in the Umayyad mosque in Damascus, Syria. His dynasty lasted for 50 years and was then overthrown.

GLOSSARY:

JUST Fair

- Because you've had to process the information to reduce it to key words; so you've had to think about the meaning rather than just the words.
- Because it's quicker to read through than the original notes, so revisiting this revision is easier.

READ EFFECTIVELY

One really useful technique is the 3Fs: First, Fast, Focused. It works like this:

1. First: Read just the FIRST SENTENCE of each paragraph quickly. This gives you a general sense of what you are going to read, so your brain can start to have expectations about what you are going to learn – so you don't have to work as hard when you read through the second time!

What do you think the piece is generally about? What's the topic? Is any particular point being made?

2. Fast: SPEED read the whole article. You are looking to read slightly faster than usual, so you can read most of the words, not bomb down the page faster than you can take in anything! This is how:

Use your hand / a ruler / a blank sheet of paper and move this down the page covering the text you are trying to read. Make sure...

- a) you move smoothly – don't stop and start so you can read passages more carefully – the first read through is meant to identify areas which need to be read more carefully next time
- b) move at a pace that is slow enough for you to see each line, but too fast for you to read each word. Getting this speed right takes practice.

What key facts did you pick up? If you didn't get anything, you went too fast.

What do you need to go back and check? If there is nothing left to check, you read too slowly.

3. Focused: CHOOSE which paragraphs/sections/sentences you now want to read carefully. These should be bits you really didn't understand.

What extra information did you find out?

To double check

Explain to yourself in your own words what you have just read.

How to complete your weekly History revision

There are four topics per week – split these topics across the two sessions – complete Germany and the Cold War in the first session of the week and Elizabethan England and Medicine in the second session

Each week you have a set topic to revise for each unit clearly listed below. Carry out your revision by doing the following

1. Revise the topic – either re read the notes in your workbook, look in a revision guide or watch a revision video on <https://www.gcsepod.com/> or https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCoHOk2f7_kRZynX_lwiJ1IQ
2. Complete the revision quizzes for that week on Educake – the quizzes will be set for the right week by your class teacher
3. If you get less than 70% revise the topic again and retake the quiz

GCSE MFL Revision Timetable Information It is important to note that this is a generic MFL revision guide and you should tailor your revision to your strengths and weaknesses in MFL, spending more time on any areas that need improving e.g. learning vocab, grammar, writing... An overview of the main areas that need revising is:

HIGHER TIER

Vocabulary - learn the AQA recommended list of vocabulary (available on AQA website); use memrise; Seneca learning; complete Activelearn exercises; AQA 9-1 GCSE revision guide; go through your notes, reading and listening ex's, past papers you have completed and learn this vocab

Reading - complete past/specimen papers; complete Activelearn exercises; textbook exercises; read the news, a magazine article, a blog/forum online that comes from the GCSE topic areas, a Mary Glasgow magazine; use GCSE bitesize; ask for and complete a Super Curriculum activity

Listening - complete past/specimen papers; complete Activelearn exercises; attend Listening intervention sessions at lunch/after school; watch the news, listen to the radio, to some music online about one of the GCSE topics; GCSE bitesize; ask for and complete a Super Curriculum activity. Then look up and write down all language that you did not know.

Speaking - 1) Answer and learn questions for the general conversation part of your speaking exam on all three themes, starting with your chosen theme (time yourself saying it, use forvo.com/voki.com to help with pronunciation), and ensure you have a question that you will ask the examiner. 2) Practise role plays (some available in the GCSE revision section on Moodle). Pay particular attention to covering the requirements of each task and ensure you fulfil what is asked of you on the card, ensure you understand all question words and can ask a range of questions for the ? task, practise answering a range of ! unexpected questions. 3) Practise photo cards on a range of topics that are not in your chosen theme for your general conversation (these will not come up in the exam). Practise describing the photo, answering the two other questions that are on the card, as well as the two unexpected questions that are not on the card. Ensure you can develop your answers to these questions so that you can speak for 2-3 minutes over the course of the 5 questions.

Writing - 1) Answer and learn your GCSE speaking questions on all three themes that you can use in your writing exam; 2) Use the AQA writing workbook (level 9) available in class, complete 90 word and 150 word practice answers and hand to your teacher to be checked. 3) Practise understanding 4 bullet point 90 word tasks and the requirements of this task - focus on your accuracy, particularly with your verbs and tenses, answer all 4 bullet points clearly, ensure you use three tenses in your answer, use high-level opinions, some reasons why, a few connectives. 4) Practise understanding 2 bullet point 150 word tasks and the requirements of this task - structure your answer clearly, ensure you answer both bullet points clearly, use a range of high-level language and structures in your answer (see your high-level checklist).

Translation - practise translations from a range of GCSE topics both from the target language to English and from English to the target language. Available in past/specimen papers (see GCSE revision folder on Moodle), GCSE textbook, Grammar and Translation workbook (ask your teacher)

Grammar - complete Activelearn exercises, textbook exercises, worksheets (available from your teacher); languagesonline.org.uk; Seneca learning; learn grammatical structures (e.g. tenses, high-level opinions, connectives, time phrases, gender, word order, adjective agreement, negatives), ensure you can use and understand all verb conjugations for the present, perfect, imperfect, future, and conditional tenses as a minimum. Learn higher level grammatical structures e.g. idioms, subjunctive, if clauses, modal verbs in various tenses, infinitive constructions, relative clauses, present participles, the passive (see your high-level checklist). Check the Foundation and Higher recommended grammar list on the AQA website. Ask for help or to go through any grammar you do not understand. Ensure you try to use the grammar learned correctly in your writing and speaking.
